Lunations and Long-term Aspects

This month the New Moon on the 15th occurs in Pisces, your 11th House of groups, associations, networking, friends, hopes and wishes. If your birthday is within a few days of May 16th this will have a stronger effect, most likely bringing an opportunity your way from this part of your life. Thus, this is a favorable time to spend some time with friends and associates, doing some networking, and redefining your goals. Remember the hopes and wishes which belong in this house are those which require assistance from others to achieve.

This lunation comes with a significant entourage that comprises a conjunction amongst the Sun, Moon, Mercury, and Uranus with Jupiter coming up in the rear. The New Moon usually brings something new and with Mercury and Uranus involved it is likely to come in the form of news or an idea that is either a surprise or completely unexpected. Since Pisces is sextile Taurus, this should be a good thing and represent the chance to take advantage of circumstances or a situation. The motivation to act upon it is there as well and will derive from your home environment, perhaps in the form of encouragement or support from a family member. It is likely that it will entail an increase in your responsibilities, possibly at work, but of course this does not necessarily mean it's a bad thing. After all, moving up the corporate ladder usually involves just that as you prove yourself and are given more to do and are obligated to answer for regarding the results.

Be on the lookout for it, especially if you've been one of those unfortunate souls looking for work the past several months. Now is not the time to keep too much to yourself or avoid contact with those who may be able to point you toward a new opportunity. Change for Fixed Signs such as Taurus don't come easily, but unless you are 100% satisfied with the status quo, it's something you'll have to deal with in one way or another. An additional caution to consider is the fact that windows of opportunity don't remain open forever. You like to take your time making decisions, but sometimes you aren't allowed that luxury. So bear that in mind, especially since whatever this brings is likely to come out of the blue. Uranus is entirely unpredictable. No matter where you may think something will come from, it's more than likely that won't be it since Uranus is the master of surprises. When I advise you to expect the unexpected I mean just that and being prepared is essential. This means for you to consider the fact that something may be coming your way and prepare yourself mentally for dealing with it.

The Full Moon on March 29 occurs in Libra, your 6th House of work, health and pets, thus supporting the New Moon with its general theme. It will be strongest for those born a day or maybe two on either side of April 30. A Full Moon usually indicates a culmination, so it's time to wrap things up and move toward something new. This will entail some soul-searching, examining your dreams, and seeking any needed inspiration. There may be some resistance or obstacles associated with your home or family, especially if a career change is involved, but you should be able to turn that around because it will ultimately improve things there as well. Major changes are a possibility but not inevitable. If this is the case, they could involve something as major as going back to school or relocating. Give a lot of thought to how much you want things to improve and what you're willing to do so that can happen. This may be once situation where if you snooze you lose.

Daily and Short-term Aspects

March 1: As implied by this month's lunations, it's time for a change of course. A thought or information is likely today which will start you in a new direction that will involve your home life in some way. Mercury goes into Pisces, your 11th House of groups and friends, indicating that this information is likely to come from that direction.

March 2: Adjustments to your responsibilities will be required, with at least a hint of what this might be out there today.

March 3: Expect something to arrive straight out of the blue, possibly with regard or through a female friend or associate.

March 4: Information hailing from your friends or associates or that relates to your hopes and wishes will offer an opportunity to take a good look at anything in your life that desperately needs renovation. This could include something quite drastic, such as your education, core beliefs, or willingness to relocate.

March 7: Venus goes into Aries today, bringing her blessings to your inspiration and dreams. Today she is forming a very friendly trine with Mars, a very favorable aspect for encounters with the opposite sex. It's also very favorable for entertaining or having a few friends over. Big news or perhaps a significant idea is likely as well.

March 9: Responsibilities will compete with pursuing any group activities today, but negotiations are possible. This could also arrive in the form of more work due to a situation involving a female coworker or friend.

March 10: Mars comes out of retrograde today, which will help with any home projects that may have been stuck in the mud the past few months.

March 11: A favorable time to do some serious soul-searching. Scrutinize your dreams and anything you may have been ignoring.

March 14: Be on the lookout for news, information, or ideas that have a direct bearing on you. This will come through your social contacts or could also be a new goal.

March 15: New Moon as described above.

March 17: If you haven't already encountered something unexpected, be on the lookout for it today. Mercury goes into Aries today, further facilitating any soul-searching and inspiration. The motivation to pursue it will derive from your home environment in some way.

March 18: Give plenty of thought to your work responsibilities and how well they relate to your spiritual growth. If you feel confined or limited by your current situation, maybe it's time for a change. It's also a favorable time to address any health issues.

March 20: The Sun goes into Aries, further highlighting your dreams, inspiration and any sense of being confined or trapped. Give some more thought to anything that needs to be resolved that involves your attitude toward your education level, beliefs, or faraway places.

March 21: Your home or family will provide the motivation you need to redefine or move toward your recent dreams. Your responsibilities toward your job or perhaps something like volunteer work will be in the way. It's up to you decide how to handle it. Where there's a will there's a way, and Taurus has plenty of will.

March 22: An excellent day to get some things taken care of around the house.

March 25: It's time to take a long, hard look at those possibilities that have been taunting you. If something has been holding you back which you have not properly resolved, the Universe is giving you another chance to take care of business.

March 29: Full Moon today as described above.

March 31: Your Sign Ruler, Venus, is trying to push you in a new direction, even if the path ahead is not easy. Inspiration to find the way is there as well, however, as Venus also goes into Taurus. This very friendly influence will be your personal assistant until April 26 so put her to work.
