Lunations and Long-term Aspects

This month is a bit quieter than last which I doubt anyone will complain about. Mercury comes out of his retrograde shadow on November 11, which will help get things moving again at a more normal pace. The Full Moon on November 6 is in fellow Fixed Sign, Taurus, your 4th house of home environment, memories, cultural roots, endings and new beginnings suggesting an ending, culmination or shift to a new phase with regard to something in that part of your life. If your birthday is right around February 3rd the lunation forms a T-square with your natal Sun which suggests a conflict related to home and career or perhaps your status which could end or shift to a new level. Relationship conflicts are likely and may involve your beliefs or expectations with regard to responsibility, both yours and that of others. While Jupiter transits Leo, your polar sign which represents your 7th house of close relationships, matters in this area will seem inflated. You may encounter far more people than usual in a variety of capacities and the encounters themselves may be somewhat exaggerated.

Mars and Pluto, two planets considered malefic, are hanging out in your 12th house. This is the angels and demons house which includes everything from inspiration, dreams, visions and enlightenment to institutions, seclusion, confinement as well as your subconscious mind, hidden enemies and self-undoing. These two planets are forming a trine with the Full Moon which could help resolve something which involves one or more of these 12th house matters. A change of direction in how you see something related to your status could result.

Neptune stations direct on November 16 in your 2nd house of income, possessions, finances, needs, comforts and pleasures. He is also the modern ruler of this house. While Neptune can make things disappear he's also the planet that rules the concept "thoughts become things" and is often associated with financial gain. Thus, going direct could help you obtain the vision you need. There's an interesting yod a.k.a. "finger of God" associated with the station direct chart. It appears that a transformation that will incorporate both your head and your heart will likewise bring about a sudden change in your thoughts. This will require dealing with something at the subconscious level which has probably been holding you back. The status of one or more relationships may also be involved. This may not be an easy process but dealing with it purposely at the heartfelt level is likely to have an important impact.

The New Moon on November 22 is in Sagittarius, your 11th house of friends, organizations, groups, goals, hopes and wishes. This is the house that Aquarius rules in the zodiac and thus an important one to your core. This could bring something new into this part of your life, including a few challenges which have some upside potential even though it may have a negative impact initially on your finances. If anyone has been trying to undermine you in a secretive way this could come to light. A change of direction in a relationship could result. It's interesting that the 7th house of close relationships includes competitors and open enemies. It's possible that anyone talking behind your back will be identified and thus shift over into the open-enemies category. Venus is transiting your 11th house of friends which should work in your favor and possibly even bring some pleasant surprises.

That's about it for this month though fallout from October may still be coming your way. Remember those eclipses can hang around for a while so anything that developed may not have fully played out yet.
